

MLW Academic Training Clinic Sessions

(Pre MSc – Post doc Academic Track Candidates)

What: The MLW Training Program is piloting an Academic Training Clinic for individual trainees and/or supervisors using pre-booked 30 min meeting slots. The pilot will run for four months. It will be run by Cecellia Mathews (training and development coordinator at MLW) and Anja Terlouw (MLW co-lead training).

Why: MLW trainees and supervisors may have mentorship questions that are not addressed by current supervisory structures and training opportunities offered at MLW. As we plan to develop more mentorship and personal development activities, we would like to better understand the type of questions and potential support needed, based on real-life examples.

When: The Pilot sessions will run from November 2018 to March 2019.

How: Two clinics will be held in a month (biweekly), each will run for a max of 2 hours, with 30 minutes allocation for each student/intern/candidate/supervisor. Meetings need to be booked via the training officer Zikani Phiri.

Where: MLW conference rooms (specific room to be communicated at time of booking)

For who: Interns - Pre-MSc, Pre-PhD; Students- MSc, PhD; Early career scientists

Registration: As there are limited spaces in each month. Register by emailing training@mlw.mw . Include your training level, group, and meeting objective.

Date of 1st Session – 7th November 2018.

Time 2-4pm.
